OM JAI JAI SAI MAA

Dear Souls,

I love you so. I embrace you deep within my heart as you experience what you have never experienced during your lifetime.

We are moving through this global crisis together. And there will be more. What is surfacing are old patterns, fears, and panic. At the very same time, what is emerging is that which is eternal, the awakening of humanity. Aspects of you are birthing and expanding you into new levels of consciousness. Before your physical birth, you chose to be here now in physical form with me, to carry out an agreement, to fulfill your dharma, your purpose to serve the planet in her upliftment.

As I have repeated many times, the physical form, the body, the vehicle is mortal. Many many are leaving this planet now. The pandemic is confronting humanity with the impermanence of the physicality, with the importance of realizing how much more you are than your identification with the body. What you carry inside of you, this inner wealth, is immortal, is the Eternality of Life Itself that is never born and never dies.

Death of the body is inevitable, a common fact of existence. Most choose to ignore death, to avoid it, and bury deep down any thoughts about death and dying. Society holds death at a distance, creates death as a taboo, with individuals, families, and communities rarely speaking of it. This silence results in ignorance, magnifies the underlying fears, sometimes terror, and the cycle continues.

We are entering a new cycle, during which time it is critical to go inside, and what a perfect time to stay at home, allowing you to be still, reflect, introspect, examine old concepts and underlying fears and contracting emotions. When you identify with the body as who you are, you are watering falsehood, forgetfulness. Know that humans in physical form are playing a role in the grand leela of life, changing costume from one life experience to another for the sake of re-remembrance. How can you re-member when you avoid, turn away, when you do not ask questions such as “Who am I really deep down? What am I?”

OM JAI JAI SAI MAA

Fear disappears, dissolves, by going inside and discovering the answers to these questions, in the knowingness of the Truth of who you are as Pure Consciousness. Your fears disappear, fears for yourself, for your loved ones, about death and dying. You find peace, serenity, centeredness, clarity, stability in realizing that when the body stops breathing - and no one knows when is the last exhale - you as soul are free of the physical envelope that limits you, free from duality, pain, pleasure, good, bad... and the Atma, the permanent, eternal Self is alive.

See every instant as a birthing, another step on the ladder of conscious evolution, even when you may not have a reference point for the journey. Have faith, more faith. Trust I am with you, and use what you have learned and practiced. All of your work with me, with community, that has led you to where you are now, to your new vibration, higher frequency, ever expanding consciousness. Be aware, adjust, recalibrate, reprogram.

Transcend what you have created out of ignorance. Awaken and move into your knowingness of who you are as eternal. I invite you to be conscious collaborators, co-creators, members, uncovering who you are and your agreement when you incarnated this time. You are bringing the knowledge of many life experiences to bear here and now. Quantum Influence, Akash Influence, Cosmic Influence. All selves and dimensions that you are bringing from the other side of the veil, as the veil becomes thinner and thinner through your actions as light workers. You are so much more than the body; the body serves as a vehicle for you to express, to create and to serve all as an expansion of the cosmos and All That Is.

Yes, take decisive action with the practicalities related to caring for the body. I have shared the importance of serving others through having your legal paperwork in order upon your physical death. Care for one another. Face what is happening, express, share, and thus be at peace with dying and death, your own as well as that of your loved ones. In this peaceful state, you will be clear, conscious, and able to carry out your responsibilities to serve yourself and others.

I celebrate the sacredness of who you are as light, as the grandeur of the Immortal Being that has taken many physical forms in the path to re-member and merge once again with Source.

Forever One in the Heart of Creation,

Your Ever

Maa
